   In Flanders Fields

   John McCrae

   In Flanders fields the poppies blow
   Between the crosses, row on row,
   That mark our place; and in the sky
   The larks, still bravely singing, fly
   Scarce heard amid the guns below.

   We are the Dead. Short days ago
   We lived, felt dawn, saw sunset glow,
   Loved, and were loved, and now we lie
   In Flanders fields.

   Take up our quarrel with the foe:
   To you from failing hands we throw
   The torch; be yours to hold it high.
   If ye break faith with us who die
   We shall not sleep, though poppies grow
   In Flanders fields.

   Lieutenant-Colonel John McCrae (1872–1918)

   graduated from University College and the Faculty of Medicine at the University of Toronto, now Temerty Faculty of Medicine. He was a veteran of the South African War. This poem was composed during the Great War in May 1915 while he served as a medical officer at the 2nd Battle of Ypres. John McCrae died of complications from pneumonia in 1918 while in active service.

An excerpt from “For the Fallen”
by Laurence Binyon
They shall grow not old,
as we that are left grow old:
Age shall not weary them,
nor the years condemn.
At the going down of the sun
And in the morning
We shall remember them.
We shall remember them.
